

Bloom

MAGAZINE

BLOOMINGTON

Wedding Guide

2011

Banquets & Catering

Customized For You

Bloomington's exclusive full service catering company dedicated to excellence and professionalism

812.333.3431
www.KRCCatering.com

“Where do I begin to express my gratitude towards such an amazing caterer as KRC?! June 12, 2010 was the day of our magical wedding and we were so honored to have KRC cater our event. There was no one else that learned about my husband and I as a couple, paid the closest attention to detail and was extremely responsive to every little question we had.

Their attention paid off. Everything from the cocktail hour, appetizer tables, the bar set ups, and the main course all looked spectacular. We are still getting rave reviews from our guests – saying it was the best meal they’ve ever had. They served everything with elegance and complete professionalism. I can’t say enough good things about KRC. ”

- Alexis Freeman

Weddings ARE LIKE Snowflakes... 2011

Weddings are like snowflakes—beautiful and fleeting, each unlike any other. At the heart of each one is a couple celebrating their commitment to each other in front of family and friends. Without exception, all couples want their weddings to exude an aura of effortless romance, just like the magic of falling in love. The four Bloomington couples who share their stories here concur—their weddings were anything but effortless, but worth every bit of labor. When Liza and Nick Banich found popular venues booked on their chosen day, they thought creatively and ended up having the first wedding reception ever held at IU’s Henke Hall of Champions—the perfect place for a couple with their Hoosier lineage. Ben Stahl completely trusted his fiancée, Kate Templin, when she turned her creativity loose and it led to buying hundreds of paper ornaments online, with breathtaking results. Professional basketball players Cyndi Valentin and Duany Duany planned their wedding amidst a year of crazy international travel. In the end, their day was an elegant fusion of their families’ cultural heritages. For Tina Irvine and Chaz Sinn, only an outdoor wedding would do, and they made it happen in an idyllic natural setting complete with log cabin and pond. All four couples had a clear vision of what kind of wedding they wanted and wisely turned to local wedding professionals to help make their march down the aisle and the celebrations that followed joyous and picture perfect.

By Lee Ann Sandweiss

COVER: Kate Templin and Ben Stahl embrace under the “lanterns” in IMU’s Alumni Hall.
Photo by Jeffrey and Julia Woods

Too pretty to eat?

Absolutely...Not!

Custom wedding & special event cake design

112 E. Kirkwood Ave.
812.334.8460

Café & Cakery www.bluboychocolate.com

INDIANA UNIVERSITY JACOBS SCHOOL OF MUSIC

Musical Attractions

Jacobs School of Music students are ready to perform at your next event!

Proceeds benefit our students.

Weddings!

Parties!

Corporate Events!

Contact us for more information
(812) 855-7047 / musattr@indiana.edu

{ WEDDING NO. 1 }

SO FULL of Love

PHOTOS BY Jeffrey and Julia Woods

“Feet and shoes. Puzzle pieces. Keys and locks. When these don’t fit, it is easy to tell, but when they do, it seems obvious. When I met Kate, it was obvious.”

BEN STAHL KNEW he wanted to spend the rest of his life with Kate Templin, shortly after they met at a local hangout in their Chicago neighborhood in April 2007. “She insulted my clothing choice, we danced, and then we became engaged. It really is that simple,” he explains with a grin.

Once Ben proposed, except for choosing the wedding’s location, things were anything but simple for Kate.

“Bloomington was the only place I could imagine myself getting married—it’s always felt like my second home,” says Kate, a Lafayette, Indiana native and Indiana University graduate. “While the decision of where to exchange our vows was an easy one—my parents and grandparents were married at First United Methodist—I pretty much made every other part of the wedding planning process as delightfully complicated as possible.”

Since graduating from IU in 2001 with a journalism degree, Kate has been a magazine editor in Chicago covering lifestyle-related topics. Getting married meant she had the chance to bring some of her professional know-how to her personal life.

“I literally made the wedding a second job. I even launched a daily e-mail blast and website with a couple of friends, called ‘Bride-Buzz,’ to share all my wedding finds with other brides,” she says. “Luckily, my real job had introduced me to a ton of creative people in Chicago, a few of whom helped me turn my vision of modern whimsy into a reality.”

Kate Templin and Ben Stahl currently live in Chicago but were married at Bloomington’s First United Methodist Church where Kate’s parents and grandparents married.

100% recycled invitations handmade along the B-line Trail

twisted limb paper.com

812-333-3151 1122 South Morton Street

THE LAZARE DIAMOND
The world's most beautiful diamond®

The originators of the ideal cut

argentum
Jewelry

Fine Contemporary Jewelry since 1973

6th & College Downtown Bloomington
812-336-3100 • 1-877-977-2100
www.argentum-jewelry.com

Say "I do" to the perfect Honeymoon...

Whether you are planning a destination wedding or a honeymoon, only careful attention to detail will ensure perfection. Our destination specialists are dedicated to helping you create memories that will last a lifetime. The Travel Authority services include 24 hour 365 day assistance with every destination wedding, honeymoon, and travel package. We will be with you every step of the way.

The Travel Authority
an ALTOUR company

421 E 3rd St # 10, Bloomington, IN • 333-3360 • TheTravelAuthority.com

Clockwise from top: Alumni Hall was transformed by hundreds of paper lanterns in a high-impact display created by Mike Schwandt. (ceremony) Kate and Ben exchange vows, with Rev. Jenifer Stuelpe Gibbs officiating. (cake) IMU caterers made the vanilla and almond cake that was adorned with a topper made by Concarta, an artist who creates custom cake toppers from paper. The dog in the topper looks uncannily like Kate and Ben's Tibetan terrier, Gus. (bouquets) Cathy Teeters created all floral arrangements in the wedding's pink, yellow, orange, and red color scheme. (detail) Close-up of lantern construction.

Kate and Ben leaving the church amidst a flurry of confetti made of biodegradable paper that dissolves in water.

SO FULL OF LOVE:
'Being surrounded by so much love and support was really overwhelming and amazing.'

Kate shares a moment with her mother Sarah Templin and her maternal grandfather Richard Schmalz.

Getting Hitched? we cater events of all sizes and budgets

CHECK US OUT AT:
farmweddings.farm-bloomington.com

Farm bloomington - real food

FARMbloomington 108 East Kirkwood 812.323.0002

Kate also enlisted some topflight Bloomington wedding professionals for hands-on execution of her plans, which involved using about a thousand paper lanterns to decorate IMU's Alumni Hall, which was the reception site as well as the location of her mother's senior prom.

"I knew I wanted to do something with the hall's high ceilings," she says. "When I saw all the paper products in pinks, yellows, and tangerines in the summer 2009 issue of Martha Stewart Living, I knew I wanted to incorporate a high-impact paper display, which Mike Schwandt [Big Picture Productions], who did our lighting and installation, pulled off beautifully."

In addition to Schwandt, Kate praises the efforts of IMU's Special Events Coordinator Bari Kuhlman, and wedding coordinator/florist Cathy Teeters (Cathy Teeters Beautiful Weddings). "Those three were like on-the-ground wedding ninjas. They seriously pulled off what I thought might be impossible."

While planning the wedding was really a passion and a joy, and, yes, sometimes stressful, Kate says that when it came to the actual day, all those details faded away and the most important thing was their families.

"The ceremony ended up being my favorite part of the day—our officiant, Reverend Jenifer Stuelpe Gibbs [First United Methodist Church], did a wonderful job. The second was dancing with my 92-year-old grandpa at the reception," says Kate. "Being surrounded by so much love and support was really overwhelming and amazing. In fact, Ben and I were so full of love that about a month after the wedding, we found out we were expecting a honeymoon baby!"

social butterfly
wedding & event planning

812.332.8113
www.socialbutterfly.us

artful blooms
florist by appointment

weddings
artfulblooms.com

teresa kinder 812.876.6716
karen pacific 812.361.7171

photo by britta + miss

THE TAILORED FIT
 CUSTOM CRAFTED CLOTHING

For your custom created designs and all level of alteration needs make your next stop

THE TAILORED FIT

Margaret Fette, Owner
 812.323.2665

www.TheTailoredFit.biz

508 W 4th Street
 4TH STREET PLAZA, at 4th and Rogers

{ WEDDING NO. 2 }

HOOP Dreams

PHOTOS BY Deckard Photography

Cyndi Valentin and Duany Duany's wedding was a union of Sudanese and Dominican traditions. Pastor Kim Norris of the City Church for All Nations officiated.

{ DUANY + CYNDI }

Bloomington is passionate about basketball.

SO WHEN HOMETOWN BASKETBALL STARS Cyndi Valentin and Duany Duany wed here in July 2010, the celebration was not only profoundly moving due to the melding of their Puerto Rican/Dominican and Sudanese traditions, it was a red-carpet spectacular event.

The couple, both Indiana All-Stars—Duany graduated from Bloomington High School North in 1995, Cyndi from Bloomington High School South in 2002—met for the first time in Boston in 2003 at a basketball camp run by the Duany family, renowned for its basketball dynasty. (Duany and brother Kueeth were captains of NCAA Final Four teams, University of Wisconsin and Syracuse University, respectively; and their parents, who fled their native Sudan to escape religious persecution and received graduate degrees at Indiana University, have the distinction of being the first to have four children playing in the NCAA in the same year.)

While love of basketball formed the initial bond between Cyndi and Duany, the feelings deepened into love for each other. After a six-year courtship that weathered global travel in Europe and Africa—both Cyndi and Duany were playing professional international basketball—Duany proposed at the Valentin home in the presence of both their families.

All brides face challenges putting together a lavish wedding, but it required a great deal of effort for a jet-setting pro basketball player who had just signed a contract to play in Spain. After finding her dress and venue, Cyndi enlisted Hannah Trowbridge of Social Butterfly as her wedding planner.

"Without her I don't know how I would have got it done," Cyndi says. "I also got support from my family, Duany's sisters and mom, and Ashley Farrell, my maid of honor. Bari Kuhlman's team at the IMU was also great. So it was definitely a team effort!"

The freshest food and ideas in Bloomington.

Event and Catering Services,
 Menus and more available online @ oneworldcateringandevents.com

one world
 Catering & Events

catering@bloomington.com | 812/334-FOOD

We create an atmosphere where joy is possible

Beautiful Weddings
 & Design Studio

(812) 333-7540 • (812) 327-9794
www.CathyTeetersBeautifulWeddings.com

At IU Credit Union, we believe in happily ever after.

Photo: Don Barnhart, www.studio28.biz

We take pride in our commitment to a lasting relationship.

IU Credit Union has all of the resources you need for a lasting financial relationship. We provide products that fit your lifestyle, financial education and counseling to make you money-wise, loans and deposits with great rates, plus 24/7 access to your account with a nationwide network of ATMs and shared branches. What's not to love? Open your account online or at any branch.

We started a credit union and created a community.

IU Credit Union

Member NCUA

812-855-7823 • iucua.org

Newlywed basketball stars Cyndi and Duany stroll down the aisle after their wedding ceremony at IMU's Tree Suite Garden.

The intimate July 10, 2010, ceremony took place at the IMU's Tree Suite Garden and incorporated a traditional Dominican exchange of 13 coins between the bride and groom.

"We passed them back and forth thirteen times until they ended up in my hands on the thirteenth time," Cyndi explains. "This represents how we will share material things and provide for each other."

More than 500 ostrich plumes adorned Alumni Hall at the reception, contributing to the dramatic Miami-chic vibe—the couple loves South Beach—which featured custom-print accent material of teal and silver, and walls draped in white fabric, with cool teal up-lighting by Mike Schwandt (Big Picture Productions). DJ Wild Child provided a mix of meringue, salsa, and bachata—music traditional to Cyndi's Puerto Rican and Dominican heritage.

But hands down the most unforgettable dance of the evening was when Cyndi joined

Table shot: White ostrich plumes and teal table linens contribute to the wedding's Miami-chic vibe.

(clockwise from top left): Cyndi and her new sister-in-law, Nok Duany, perform a Sudanese dance in traditional garments.

The guests spontaneously took to the floor and joined in the dance.

Cyndi and Duany embrace during a slow dance.

The IMU pastry chef created the five-tiered wedding cake which was decorated with the couple's monogram.

Duany's sisters Nok and Nyagon to dance in the Nuer tradition wearing traditional Sudanese garments.

"The dance is powerful and reflects the warrior spirit of the Nuer, which has helped them survive centuries of adversity," Duany explains. "Cyndi fit so seamlessly into the dance—she embodies all the values that the dance celebrates. I could not control my emotion and had to run out there and join them."

Cyndi was equally overwhelmed. "I just didn't imagine how well received it would be by the guests, but, once we started, everyone was on their feet and circled us, clapping and cheering. Right at the end Duany's dad came and danced with me. It was an incredible moment I will never forget."

HOOP DREAMS

While love of basketball formed the initial bond between Cyndi and Duany, the feelings deepened into love for each other.

BEAUTIFUL, PRIVATE SPACE ON KIRKWOOD & OFF-PREMISE CATERING

finch's
BRASSERIE

PRIVATE PARTIES
RESERVED FOR You

www.finchsbrasserie.com

RESERVE TODAY: 812-333-2700
FINCHSBRASSERIEEVENTS@GMAIL.COM

« REHEARSAL DINNERS // SHOWERS // GROOM'S PARTIES // RECEPTIONS // CELEBRATIONS OF ALL KINDS »

A Hoosierific Wedding!

{ WEDDING NO. 3 }

PHOTOS BY
Deckard Photography

IU's Memorial Stadium is the perfect backdrop for IU grads Liza and Nick Banich, who come from a long line of Hoosier alumni. Their wedding reception at Henke Hall of Champions was the first ever at the venue.

Nick Banich still can't get over it. When he met his future wife Liza Stephens at a party his fraternity had with her sorority, he got her name wrong.

Father Jim Wilmouth, Liza's family priest, came to Bloomington from Knoxville, Tennessee, to celebrate the wedding mass.

Nick and Liza taking a bit of their own advice: "Take a deep breath and enjoy the day—it will fly by!"

{ NICK + LIZA }

"I THOUGHT HER NAME was Leslie and had it that way in my phone until I got a Facebook friend request," he sheepishly admits. "I am just glad she was able to overlook that and agree to put up with me for the rest of our lives."

In September 2009, Nick proposed to Liza in Monument Circle after a romantic carriage ride around downtown Indianapolis. "I thought if it was going to happen it would be on the carriage ride, but we were walking across the circle to look at the fountain, and when I turned around he was on his knee," Liza recalls.

The wedding was planned for May 2010, the week after Nick's graduation from Indiana University and one week before his father, a colonel in the U.S. Army Reserve, was deployed to Afghanistan. That meant they had only eight months to plan a lavish wedding.

St. Charles Catholic Church, their place of worship, was available for the ceremony, but a number of Bloomington's popular wedding reception venues were not.

"We thought about moving the wedding to Knoxville, Tennessee, where Liza grew up, when her dad came up with the idea of looking into the Henke Hall of Champions," says Nick.

Your journey begins here

The Story Inn
Brown County, Indiana
www.storyinn.com • (800) 881-1183
Fine Dining, Overnight Accommodations, Honeymoons, Weddings, Receptions, and Rehearsal Dinners

Before you say "I do"

Treat yourself to the complete Aveda experience. We will take care of your every need from facials, manicures and pedicures to hair and airbrushed make-up. Start the celebration by scheduling your appointment today.

AVEDA

Les champs élysées
DAY SPA & SALON
601 N. College Ave. • www.LCESPA.com • 812.333.5030

MarDon Salon 124 E Kirkwood Ave • 812.334.4444

(above) Elegant table settings of navy, ivory, and yellow accents complemented the cream-and-crimson color theme.

(below) Nick and Liza have the field all to themselves for one precious moment.

pionship Catering) followed in the hall's dramatic upper level on table settings of navy and ivory, with yellow accents. Sherry Eller created the traditional wedding cake; potica, a Sloviaian sweet nutbread and Banich family favorite baked by Nick's godmother, substituted for a groom's cake. Mike Schwandt (Big Picture Productions) helped create a festive atmosphere with custom lighting that included an abstract floral pattern on the dance floor. A photo booth provided additional fun for the guests.

"We got copies of all the photos taken throughout the night," Liza says. "Looking back on our wedding, there is absolutely nothing I would change—it was the classy, timeless wedding I envisioned."

(above) The groomsmen get goofy at Showalter Fountain on the IU campus.

(right) The wedding party rocks out on the dance floor.

Fortunately, the hall—an opulent banquet and entertaining space that is part of the recent Memorial Stadium renovation—was available and theirs would be the first wedding celebration to be held there. The location could not have been more perfect for this Hoosier clan, as Liza, Nick, and both their fathers were IU grads.

"We met at IU, so having it at the stadium with all the IU paraphernalia was perfect!" Liza says.

Cathy Teeters (Cathy Teeters Beautiful Weddings) coordinated all of the details to make Liza and Nick's reception a unique Hoosier-themed celebration. A football tailgate-themed cocktail hour—complete with cream-and-crimson color scheme—was held in the hall's lower level, the concourse for IU football games.

Championship Catering provided classic tailgate fare, including miniature hot dogs, popcorn, and a selection of the families' favorite beers. An elegant dinner (also Cham-

INDIANA MEMORIAL UNION

Weddings

Photo courtesy of Bobbi & Mike Belochner

Ψ INDIANA UNIVERSITY
INDIANA MEMORIAL UNION
Catering
Bloomington

Bari Kuhlman
Wedding & Special Events Coordinator
812.855.8855

www.imu.indiana.edu/catering/weddings/
Indiana Memorial Union Weddings

White Orchid
FLORAL DESIGN STUDIO
Elegant Weddings
Special Events
1101 N. COLLEGE AVE
812-330-0540

From Head to Toe
Personal Services:

- Acne Treatments and Customized Facials
- Best Waxing in Town
- Make Up Application and Lessons
- Hair Services Including Extensions and Ethnic Hair
- Variety of Massage Therapies
- Manicures and Pedicures

Celebrating 40 YEARS in business

812.339.3193
2613 East 3rd St. • Across from Eastland Plaza
www.carmendelgado.com

Splendor

IN THE { WEDDING NO.4 } Grass

PHOTOS BY Lisa Walker

Tina Irvine and Chaz Sinn wanted an outdoor wedding from the get-go and found the perfect place at The Fields.

(top) The groomsmen and groom relax on the porch of the log cabin at the wedding site.

(right) Tina and Chaz exchange vows, with Rev. Mark Calvert-Rosenberger of First Christian Church officiating.

{ CHAZ + TINA }

Tina Irvine had been dating Chaz Sinn for five years in April 2009, but he could still surprise her—especially on the day he turned a picnic in a field of daffodils into a marriage proposal.

“CHAZ SAID HE WANTED TO GO on a picnic to celebrate the start of spring. We went to a field full of daffodils near his parents’ house—daffodils are my favorite flower,” says Tina. “When we got there, I was more focused on taking artsy pictures of the flowers than actually paying attention to Chaz. Then, oops—all of a sudden, I turned around and saw him kneeling and reaching out for my hand.”

Chaz had a well-laid plan for popping the question in that particular place, where he and Tina had visited early in their courtship. “I snuck over to the field and hid a basket of shrimp, chocolate, cheese, and champagne for us to enjoy after I surprised her,” he recalls. In his pocket that day was Tina’s great-grandmother’s engagement ring, which Tina’s mom had given him.

Although not in that particular field, the Bloomington High School North sweethearts (they met as freshmen during cross-country practice) were married on Father’s Day 2010 at The Fields—the culmination of a year of wedding planning they did themselves.

“I always wanted an outdoor wedding. The Fields was perfect, because it offered the ideal mix of country atmosphere and classiness,” Tina explains.

Chaz and Tina admit they picked a particularly busy year to take on the Herculean task of preparing for a wedding.

“We planned the wedding during my first year of teaching, which may not have been the smartest thing,” says Tina, who teaches sixth grade at Indianapolis’ Indiana Math and Science Academy. “When school ended for me in June, we had two weeks before the jar*

*photography for 2011

317.289.3567
www.JarAsterisk.com

Wedding Videography
by
Duane Busick

Experienced
Unobtrusive
Professional

Creative, Artistic and Timely
Professional Video Services

www.duanebusick.com
dubusick@comcast.net
(812) 336-8329

wedding. I think we got more done in those two weeks than we did the whole year of planning!”

The couple credits Kimberly Maxwell, The Fields’ events coordinator, with the reception’s smooth orchestration and Cathy Teeters (Cathy Teeters Beautiful Weddings) with making the wedding aesthetically personal.

Tina says that Teeters’ artistic eye created the bright color scheme she wanted. “We knew we wanted it to pop. Cathy sat down with us to look over photos and assess what our style was and wasn’t, and then we just let her go. She did a fabulous job even on a tight budget.”

Hot pink and orange dominated Teeters’ floral arrangements of spray roses, delphinium, and Gerber daisies and cheerfully popped against the attendants’ mango dresses.

Of her own dress, Tina says, “My family traces its heritage back to Greece. I knew from the moment that I tried on the dress that I eventually selected that it was the one, because in part it made me feel like a Greek goddess.”

Chaz feels that their do-it-ourselves approach was a great success for one reason: meticulous planning from the get-go.

“Although Tina and I possibly over-planned many of the details, it was worth it, because we both woke up the morning of the wedding and were just able to enjoy ourselves that day.”

CLOCKWISE FROM TOP: Tina greets guest Bloomington Mayor Mark Kruzan; excited female guests and attendants anticipate Tina’s bouquet toss; “We were just able to enjoy ourselves that day”; fresh simplicity is always in style; bright floral accents pop against the white cake.

WEDDING Tips AND IDEAS

We surveyed local wedding experts and our newlywed couples to find both creative and tried-and-true ways to make your wedding wonderful and glitch free.

1. CHECK A BLOOMINGTON CALENDAR OF EVENTS before selecting your wedding day so as to avoid busy weekends. During such events as the Lotus Festival, IU Homecoming, and Little 500, hotel rooms for your out-of-town guests will be hard to come by and traffic will be heavy.

2. ASK TALENTED FRIENDS TO PLAY A VITAL ROLE. They will be honored and you will save money—whether on music, flower arrangements, invitations, or some other part of the wedding.

3. HIRE A WEDDING COORDINATOR. If your budget allows, this is the best way to ensure the wedding goes off without a hitch and your jaw isn’t clenched in the photos.

4. CREATE A WEDDING WEBSITE. This is an easy, fun, and inexpensive way to keep everyone in the loop as you progress from engagement to honeymoon.

5. INCORPORATE FAMILY TRADITIONS. Adding ethnic ritual, food, or dance to your wedding is a way to personalize the event and honor the heritages of the merging families.

6. BOOK THE BEST MUSICIANS YOU CAN FIND. Great music sets the tone for an unforgettable wedding and reception.

7. WANT TO SHOW YOUR LOVE FOR PLANET EARTH ON YOUR WEDDING DAY? Visit greatgreenwedding.com for earth-friendly wedding ideas.

8. GIVE SOMETHING BACK. If you have everything you need, instead of receiving gifts contact your favorite charity and see if they have a donation registry.

9. TAKE A FEW DANCE LESSONS. You don’t have to be Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers, but having a few rehearsed steps will help you enjoy your moment in the spotlight.

10. MANY OF TODAY’S BRIDES ARE OPTING TO WEAR NOT ONE DRESS, BUT TWO! Wear an elegant gown for exchanging vows, then slip into something more festive and comfortable for the reception.

11. WRITE YOUR OWN VOWS. Creating your own pledges to one another can be one of the most romantic things you’ll ever do.

12. COMMUNICATE WITH YOUR PHOTOGRAPHER IN ADVANCE. Give him or her a list of the individuals and groups that you want photographed.

13. ENLIVEN YOUR RECEPTION DÉCOR WITH COLOR. White tablecloths and napkins aren’t your only option. Choose a color scheme with punch and personality.

14. LET THERE BE LIGHT. Creative lighting has exciting possibilities—from projecting a monogram or pattern on the dance floor to setting the desired mood.

15. A SIGNATURE COCKTAIL is sure to get the party started at your reception.

16. CREATE WELCOME PACKAGES FOR YOUR OUT-OF-TOWN GUESTS. Have them available at the hotel at check-in. Along with a welcome note and information about Bloomington (such as a copy of Bloom Magazine), you might include a snack, a split of Champagne, or toiletries.

17. PACK AN EMERGENCY BAG ON THE WEDDING DAY. The bride should have a bag that contains an emergency pair of this and that, safety pins, and cosmetics for touch ups.

18. MAKE A GRAND ENTRANCE. Consider being escorted by your beloved pet dog or arriving on a white horse.

19. RECYCLE CEREMONY FLOWERS AT THE RECEPTION. Use your altar arrangements to dress up the entrance to the reception or buffet tables. The wedding planner or a close friend/family member can do the transporting.

20. END THE EVENING WITH A “LATE-NIGHT SNACK.” This helps buffer the effects of alcohol consumed and adds a welcome surprise as guests depart.

A Wedding Like No Other!

Eagle Pointe has been crafting unique ceremonies and receptions for over twenty years. Dedicated to making your dream wedding a reality, we look forward to exceeding your expectations!

- Elegant atmosphere
- Beautiful views
- Impeccable service
- Comfortable 1 to 6 bedroom condos
- Recreation: golf, tennis, basketball and swimming

EAGLE POINTE
— CATERING —

Play Dine Stay

www.eaglepointe.com

812.824.4040